BUILDING THE TEXAS ECONOMY ONE BUSINESS AT A TIME

The national Small Business Development Center (SBDC) program was legislated via the Small Business Act of 1976 as a program of the U.S. Small Business Administration. Leveraged federal funding involves cooperative agreements with institutions of higher education. State governments play a vital role as key partners to efficiently and effectively leverage resources which complement the State's economic development efforts.

SBDCs provide small business owners and aspiring entrepreneurs with no-cost professional business advising and low-cost training on topics such as developing a business plan, accessing capital, finding new customers, compliance with regulations, exporting, cybersecurity, technology commercialization, and more.

The Texas SBDC Network is comprised of four lead offices strategically located at:

- Texas Tech University
- The University of Texas at San Antonio
- Dallas College
- University of Houston

Combined, they manage the 50+ field and specialty centers in urban and rural Texas. SBDCs provide hands-on guidance, which leads to greater prosperity via job creation, increased capital access, and other small business growth.

SBDC Pandemic Response: When COVID-19 stay-at-home orders were issued in March of 2020, Texas SBDCs immediately pivoted small business advising and training services for virtual delivery. To immediately respond to an unprecedented amount of inquiries and client activity, SBDCs launched call centers, held daily informational webinars, and mobilized specialized teams to assist Texas businesses access EIDL, PPP and other recovery capital, to reopen, address customer and employee safety, explore alternate delivery systems, and more.

In 2021 alone, Texas SBDCs assisted 66,702 entrepreneurs with targeted disaster recovery and resiliency, and facilitated placement at almost $148M in disaster-related capital.
